

Meredith Kercher murder case: The prosecutor plays Jeopardy

By Candace Dempsey

Silver-haired Italian prosecutor Giuliano Mignini barrels through the paparazzi who plague the sensational Meredith Kercher murder case, like a 300-pound linebacker mowing down second-string quarterbacks.

On Dec. 4 he's supposed to prosecute American college student Amanda Knox and Raffaele Sollecito, her ex-Italian boyfriend in Perugia, Italy. They're accused of killing British exchange student Kercher there in November of last year.

